

Contemporary Issues
online open access journal for social sciences and humanities

Call for Papers

Contemporary Issues is a peer-reviewed academic journal for social sciences and humanities, published by VERN in Zagreb. The Journal published original papers on contemporary research issues and topics, with an emphasis on plurality of methods and approaches and an appreciation for multidisciplinary. We accept papers and book reviews in political science, sociology, contemporary history and other related fields that deal with Southeastern Europe.

The Journal publishes annually as an online open access publication. The Editorial Board will only take into account previously unpublished, original papers in Croatian or English. We are also looking for reviews of new and significant academic books, as well as reports on current research in social sciences and humanities. The Journal welcomes both established scholars, as well as young researchers.

Contemporary Issues is indexed in the following citation databases: Worldwide Political Science Abstracts, PAIS International, Social Services Abstracts, Sociological Abstracts, CEEOL, DOAJ, EBSCOhost, Open Archives, OAIster, Scientific Commons and BASE.

Contemporary Issues* is now accepting submissions for the next issues - Vol. X, 2019!
Submission deadline: 15 December 2018

Submissions are to be made directly at the Journal Homepage, after registration of a user profile.

For details, please consult the Manuscript Submission Guidelines at the Journal Homepage.
